BIG TEAM BATTLES VIRGINIA TECH TOMORROW

President Harding to Speak Here Oct. 19

Will Be Chief Speaker At Dr. Chandler's Installation That Day.

When Dr. J. A. C. Chandler is formally installed as president of the College of William and Mary on Wednesday, October 19, at 11 a. m., the thousands of visitors will hear an address by President Warren G. Harding, who will be the college's guest, and principal speaker of the occasion.

The college has announced that President Harding has consented to make the inaugural speech, and that he will probably bring a notable body of statesmen and military officials with him on the trip to the Colonial Capital. It is certain that Mrs. Harding will accompany the President.

The President's itinerary for the day will be as follows: Reach Yorktown from the Mayflower at 10 a. m. and participate in simple exercises at the Yorktown monument. At 11 a. m. the party will reach Williamsburg, where the installation ceremonies will be staged. There will be an address by Dr. Chandler, and another will be delivered by President Harding. A number of honorary degrees will be awarded, and the entire party will be given lunch in the college dining hall.

In the afternoon the President and academic party will visit Jamestown, and view the scenes of historic interest around the first permanent English speaking colony in the New World.

At night there will be a reception in the library, and it is expected that over two hundred college presidents or their delegates will be entertained by the President, Faculty, and Board of Visitors of the college. The President of the United States will be unable to remain over for the exercises in the evening.

It is regarded as peculiarly fitting that the President of the United States should be the speaker at the installation of the President of the College of William and Mary, as the college has done more than any other American institution of learning toward the advancement and expansion of the country. She has furnished to the nation three presidents, and under their administrations the original area of the Union was trebled. Her alumni gave this country the Monroe Doctrine and the Declaration of Independence.

Presidents of all colleges over one hundred years old, in America, and the officials of European institutions have all been invited to attend the installation. The presidents of the various colleges of Virginia will prob-

COACH TAKES TWENTY MEN FOR FRACAS WITH TECH- MEN—GAME WILL BE HARD FOUGHT, IS PREDICTION.

Coach "Bill" Fincher and football squad left Thursday for Blacksburg, where William and Mary will play its first game of the season Saturday with Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Fincher and the Big Team boarded a sleeper at Richmond, and arrived in Blacksburg this morning. Signal practice there this afternoon and a good night's rest at the scene of the game will find William and Mary's eleven ready for their first gridiron contest.

This article was written before the coach had made any final selection of players he would take to Blacksburg, but he admitted that between eighteen and twenty warriors would be drawn from the following list: Wilson, captain; Bennett, Burke, Chalkley, Dietz, Flanders, Fuller, Hastings, Hardy, Haynes, Jenkins, Bake Jones, Jordan, Joyner, Keister, Lionel and George Levy, Sumner, Thompson, Todd, Williams, White, Young, Harwood, Sorg, and Peters.

Number of Professors Added to the Faculty

Oscar L. Shewmake Returns to Alma Mater As Member of Faculty.

The alumni and friends of the College of William and Mary will be glad to learn that the college has secured Oscar L. Shewmake, of the class of 1903, as professor of Government and Citizenship. Mr. Shewmake is one of the college's most distinguished alumni, and the authorities are to be congratulated on securing a man of his type for the teaching of the courses leading to the pre-legal degree. Mr. Shewmake received his B. A. from William and Mary, and his LL.B. from the University of Virginia. Since graduating in law he has been at various times counsel for the State Tax Board and State Corporation Commission and commonwealth's attorney for Surry county.

The head of the Department of Mathematics this year is Dr. Joseph E. Rowe. He is a baccalaureate graduate of Pennsylvania College, and was a student at the University of Virginia in 1904-05, and at Johns Hopkins University, where he was also a University Scholar and Fellow in Mathematics. During his work as an educator Dr. Rowe has taught at Haverford College, Dartmouth and Penn State, and during the war he was a Mathematical Research Engineer for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

Greatest Number of Students in History

William and Mary Matriculates Over Six Hundred Students.—Three Hundred Fifty Men Students.

At the time of galloping to press, the enrollment of the college was 595 and officials expected it to easily pass the 600 mark by the end of the week. Of this number about 240 are women students, and the remainder men.

Three years ago William and Mary boasted of a record enrollment of slightly over 250 students, and some of the students on the campus now can recall the day when the college had only a few over 100 students. From these figures the college's enrollment today is a 500 per cent increase over that of five years ago, and more than a hundred per cent increase over the enrollment of three years ago.

With such an increase in the student body, it is obvious that additional dormitory space is needed. The State has given the college a handsome dormitory for the women recently, but this is not enough to handle the number of women students at the college, and the authorities have been forced to use a temporary structure until funds for additional dormitory space in keeping with Tyler Hall and Jefferson Hall can be secured.

But even the need of dormitories for the women is as nothing compared to the need of space for men. It has been necessary to lease one building and equip it, and to move another a distance of 6 miles to the campus. With these two buildings available then men students still have difficulty in getting rooms. Every room on the campus has been taken.

William and Mary is becoming more and more an educational institution of first rank, not only in Virginia, but in the South. This year over a dozen States are represented among the student body.

The number of courses at the college has been greatly increased, and the faculty has been added to and strengthened. Extension courses are offered in the leading Tidewater cities, and are proving a great educational help to those unable to attend classes on the college campus. In every way, William and Mary holds the place she should among American colleges—except as regards dormitory and classroom space.

Those who probably will start are Dietz and Harwood, ends; Sorg and Williams, tackles; Wilson and Bennett, guards; Todd, center; Bake Jones, quarterback; Hastings and Chalkley, halfbacks, and "Monk" White, fullback.

By taking at least eighteen men, Coach Fincher is prepared against weakening of the team through injuries. It is invariably the case, where a small sized squad meets a team with more reserve strength, that eleven having enough good men to relieve the regulars usually brings home the highly touted bacon. Tech probably will outweigh the Indians, and this extra weight is a powerful factor, especially during the third and fourth quarters.

Coach Fincher would make no predictions as to the outcome of the opening clash. Having witnessed the V. P. I.-Hampden-Sidney game of last week, Coach Fincher proceeded to outline Tech players to the William and Mary squad upon his return Sunday. He hoped to strengthen the Indians' defense in this manner.

Despite the great showing of Hampden-Sidney College eleven, which was defeated only by a 13-6 score, V. P. I. has a splendid team, Coach Fincher told his charges at practice Monday.

An injury to Brownlee, of Sewanee Athletic Club, Portsmouth, prevented this speedy end from being taken on the trip. He got a bad lick on the right knee in scrimmage last week. He was showing up well when forced to take up his residence in the infirmary.

Since Labor Day, when call for practice was sounded, the William and

Give Memorial Gate To William and Mary

Mrs. B. B. Munford and Children Memorialize Famous Alumnus of College.

The entrance to the college campus from Duke of Gloucester street is to be beautified in the near future, due to a gift of several thousand dollars to the college, as a subscription of the endowment fund by Mrs. B. B. Munford and children, of Richmond, widow and children of the late Beverley Bland Munford, of Richmond, a distinguished alumnus of the college. Mrs. Munford is a member of the Board of Visitors of the college, having been the first woman ever appointed as a member.

The memorial gateway will be of colonial design, in keeping with the architectural design and proportions of the college buildings. With the new concrete boulevard being constructed along Duke of Gloucester street, the gateway of brick columns and wrought iron will afford a greatly improved approach to the college grounds and a fitting terminus for the college end of the boulevard.

Beverley B. Bunford, the distinguished lawyer, was one of the most prominent of the past generation's roll of William and Mary alumni. He was author of several books, including the noted "Virginia's Attitude Towards Slavery and Secession," which formed the basis for Judge Alton B. Parker's widely quoted speech on the same subject at the Sulgrave celebration at Williamsburg last year. Mr. Munford practiced law for many years in Richmond, first as a member of the firm of Staples and Munford, and later organized the firm of Munford, Hunton, Williams and Anderson.

Mr. Munford grew up in Williamsburg, where he lived in Tazewell Hall, one of the historic homes of the colonial capital. He gives a very interesting picture of Williamsburg and his life there in "Random Recollections," his book privately printed in 1903.

Mrs. Munford, who is greatly interested in William and Mary, has been closely identified with the educational movement in Virginia and the South since 1900. She is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, having been one of the first women to receive its key from the mother chapter here. She was one of the founders, in 1900, of the Richmond Education Association, and has been President of the Cooperative Education Association of Virginia since 1908. Mrs. Munford is a member of the national endowment committee working in the interests of William and Mary to obtain funds for new buildings and equipment under the chairmanship of Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

JOINT "Y" RECEPTION FOR ALL STUDENTS

On Tuesday night, September 20th, a joint "Y" reception was tendered to the entire student body and faculty. The reception was given in the gymnasium of Jefferson Hall. Over 600 students and faculty members were present.

L. B. Mead, president of the Y. M. C. A., after making a few preliminary remarks concerning the work of the two "Y's" at the college, introduced Dr. J. A. C. Chandler. The President congratulated the Y. M. and the Y. W. C. A.s on their splendid success for their initial services this year. He asked every student in college, since they are members of one of the Y's, to cooperate with the cabinet officers and do everything possible to forward the interests of the two organizations.

A duet by the Misses Sutler and solos by Mrs. Peachy and Miss Zehmer were applauded. The Spanish play in one act by Miss Zehmer and Mr. Davis added quite a bit of dramatic wit and mirth to the occasion.

The two "Y's" bid fair to be a great spiritual influence on the campus this year. The cooperation of all the members with the cabinet officers will surely bring success to both organizations.

COTILLION CLUB HAS ELECTION OFFICERS

In a set of spirited elections last Friday night C. G. Pierce was elected president of the Cotillion Club, with Otto Lowe as vice-president, and J. O. Faison as secretary and treasurer.

Permission of the Board of Visitors, which meets here next week for their fall meeting, must first be secured before any dates can be arranged. If the dances are held, it is probable that they will be given the latter part of October, on some week-end when the football team plays one of its home games.

MONOGRAM CLUB DANCE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

The Monogram Club broke the ice in the new gymnasium of Jefferson Hall last mid-week by giving a dance which proved to be a tremendous success. There were at least forty couples and about the same number of stags which were lined up around the wall and in the middle of the floor for the most part. This gives a pretty good idea as to how popular the weekly dances are going to be during the coming season.

"Pinky" Garrett's Formidable Four were the harmony dispensers. They put across in great shape most of the latest renditions such as "Aint We Got Fun?" "My Man," and others.

Everyone was considered as introduced, which was really the case after two receptions, and many of the prominent "ducs" were right in the thick of the fray pushing a mean foot.

The sad strains of "Home, Sweet Home," closed a very enjoyable hop, voted a success by all those who "put out" to Phillips at the door. The decorations were plain but attractive.

Refreshments were served during intermission and after the dance at the College Shop at the latest popular prices.

Y. M. C. A. HOLDS ITS INITIAL MEETING

Last Thursday night the Y. M. C. A. held its first regular meeting of the session in the chapel. Dr. D. J. Blocker, pastor of the Baptist Church, and a member of the faculty, gave an interesting talk on "The Value of the Y. M. C. A. to College Life."

In this talk Dr. Blocker interpreted the meaning of Youth, Man, Christianity, and Association, with relation to the name of the organization and the college man.

In view of the fact that it was the first meeting, and few of the freshmen knew of it, the attendance and interest were good, but increased interest is hoped for in the future work of the organization, which is headed this year by L. B. Mead.

SUPREME COURT HELD LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

The 228th session of the Supreme Court of William and Mary was held on the night of Saturday, September 24, and brought woe to the hundred or so "ducs" who were unfortunate enough to be subpoenaed to appear before the august and learned bench of justice.

"Prex" Wilson wore the wig, wielded the gavel, overruled objections, and meted out justice (slightly off balance) to the poor miscreants hailed before him, in fine style.

Featuring the trial was the fiery oratory of Charlie Duke, and the soprano-pitched pleading of "Monk" White. The occasion was added to by the presence of Phillips, Davis, Lowe, and other students who are following in the path of that notable alumnus, John Marshall.

After the trial, the old men lined up from the main hall to the statue, and all "ducs" had the extreme pleasure of meandering down to the main gate, with a slight acceleration of speed, the latter of their own volition.

All money derived from fines was turned over to the Monogram Club to be used for the purchase of athletic awards to the letter men of the various Indian teams.

FAIR PROVES TO BE VERY SUCCESSFUL

The Williamsburg Peninsula Fair, which began Tuesday and comes to a close Saturday, was highly successful from every standpoint. The Fair is being held on the new fair grounds recently constructed across from the depot, and the grounds are as modern as any in the State.

Speeches, exhibits of all kinds, races, side shows, a football game, and other kindred amusements, have all been a drawing card for the thousands of visitors from the counties of James City, York, Warwick, and Elizabeth City, and the cities of Williamsburg, Hampton, and Newport News who have flocked to Williamsburg to take part in and see the Fair. This is the first time the Fair has been held on such a large scale, and it is practically certain that it will continue to grow year by year.

COACH "BILL" FINCHER

COACH "BILL" FINCHER

W. E. (Bill) Fincher, who was secured by the college authorities this year to coach the football team, comes here from Georgia Tech, where he probably made the most brilliant record of any Southern gridiron performer in football history.

He played for three years on Tech high school, Atlanta, Ga., and from there went to Georgia Tech, making the Golden Tornado in his first year. As 1918 was not regarded in intercollegiate circles as a regular season, Fincher has played for five years on the Georgia eleven, both as an end and a tackle. Last year, when he was picked for the mythical All-American by Walter Camp, Fincher played tackle for Tech, and after the Pitt game ran the team from his line position. He was a member of the All-Southern for four years.

Mrs. Fincher accompanied the coach to Williamsburg, and they have both proven immensely popular with the students and townspeople.

It is believed that the college will endeavor this year to secure individual coaches for the basketball and baseball teams, as has been done in the case of football.

MARSHALL VISITS FRIENDS AT COLLEGE

Dewey H. (Rube) Marshall, premier boxman of the Indian baseball team of last spring, has been visiting the college for a few days. He came here from Atlanta, Ga., where he pitched great ball for the Atlanta team in the Southern Association, winning nine and losing nine, for an average of .500.

Marshall was bought by the Cincinnati Club, of the National League, last year from Richmond, of the Virginia circuit, and from Cincinnati was sent to Atlanta for seasoning. He has recently been traded to the Senators by Moran, and will report to Washington in the near future. Fans who have ever seen Marshall work, and know of the brilliant record he has made last year against the best college nines in the country are predicting great things for him in the Big Show.

Mary squad has been driven at a terrific pace by the new coach, who won All-American honors at Georgia Tech. The usual preliminary conditioning process, consisting of pushing the sled, tackling the dummy, falling on the ball, and running down punts, was completed about September 20, and the squad began to run through signals, and scrimmage.

Five full teams were on the field last week. The head coach shifted his varsity and second teams constantly, and discovered some promising material. Although the heat was better suited to baseball, the coach initiated scrimmaging, and gave his boys four stiff workouts during the week. The splendid condition of the squad impressed him greatly.

His first task being to get his charges into shape, Coach Fincher did not have opportunity to get a real line on his squad until he started scrimmaging. He tested the speed of his varsity backfield by placing them against the varsity linemen. The first and second teams battled on almost even terms, with the main squad thus divided.

The coach is satisfied that the material is on hand for a strong combination. His object now is to weld a varsity eleven that will have strong reserve support. Since no chain is stronger than its weakest link, the coach is concentrating his energies on developing two good men for every position. In the backfield, for instance, the dope is that he will have two, and possibly three, fast sets of players. Whenever a regular needs a rest, he can be relieved without weakening the offensive or defensive power of the gridiron machine.

Aside from the fact that the first and second string material appears to be the best that has been in college for many years, the coaching staff is greatly encouraged over the large size of the squad. Professor McLeod, who was a backfield star at University of Chicago long before the Eighteenth Amendment came into being, is handling the beginners' class. Co-operating with him, and having direct charge of the second and third squads, is Professor J. S. Counselman, who assisted Coach Driver last year. When the second string eleven clashes with the varsity, Mr. Counselman shouts encouragement to his charges. Mr. Fincher follows closely the play of the varsity.

Of last year's squad, the letter men who returned to college are: Wilson, center; Harwood, end; Jones, quarterback; White, fullback; Flanders, Hastings, and Jordan, halfbacks. Ferdie Chandler, the big tackle, who is a two-year letter man in football, and three years letter man in baseball, was lost to this year's team, when he had the misfortune to break his right leg in a baseball game at Warsaw, Va., on Labor Day. He came back to school for his senior year on the opening day, September 15. Chandler is out at Cary Field on his crutches often, lending encouragement to the team. A big hearted, clean fellow, Chandler is one of the most sportsmanlike athletes that ever came to William and Mary. He is missed in the line, too.

Otto Lowe, guard on the 1919 and 1920 elevens, is not out for the eleven, owing to parental objection. He, too, is missed. With Chandler and Lowe again disporting the moleskin uniform, the Indians' prospects would have been brighter, of course.

The Georgia Tech system of play has been installed by Coach Fincher. The quarterback never passes the ball to other backs, the direct pass being used altogether.

The William and Mary line will average between 175 and 180 pounds. The backfield probably will average 160 pounds. Captain Wilson has been shifted from center to guard, owing to the speed shown by John Todd, of Newport News High School eleven, which won State prep. school honors last season.

In advance of an actual game, it is unwise to make any claims for success that might border on the extravagant. But everyone who has seen the 1921 squad in practice feels that William and Mary has an excellent opportunity to realize an ambition of long standing duration—that of producing a winning football aggregation.

The Initial Curtsey

"In which we make our bow."

This, we believe, is the customary heading for all previous initial issues of the Flat Hat. Quite gladly we make our bow, and somehow we are constrained to believe that the gesture is made, not only to a larger circulation, but to friends whose interest in our welfare is heightened by the excellent handiwork of our immediate predecessors.

Aiming to please, we beseech your cooperation and constructive criticism. What faults we may possess in this opening issue, arrayed in its familiar gown of 8-point leaded and full-face heads, will melt, we trust, as the semester unfolds, beneath the rays of our readers' benevolence, and the genial warmth of their increasing regard.

The Flat Hat has had an ancient and honorable existence. Its purpose, as we see it, is to serve the entire student body, to be independent of clique or claue, to pursue the even course of justice, and to bring to bear upon campus activities the searchlight of editorial acumen, as well as to enlighten it with the starshells of news, "as is news."

Thanks to the omnific wisdom which conceived the idea of a campus tax—that newest and most praiseworthy form of surtax—we are at least assured of a reading public unanimous in its character and full-paid in its relation to our auditing system. What more should the sanctum ask than this: A circulation—at once settled and settled-up? Here is what circulation managers have been striving for since the days of the papyrus pamphlet. May we not regard this, also, as one of our justly celebrated priorities?

One of our contemporaries, not probably so steeped in years as this illustrious organ, but better known to the general public at large, has adopted as its motto, "All the News That's Fit to Print." This is an excellent battle slogan. We propose to apply it in our daily round in behalf of the Flat Hat, whether it be on Cary Field, at Jefferson Hall (the Ladies, God Bless 'Em) in the Brafterton, or upon the many steadily increasing concrete pathways which festoon themselves athwart that portion of the campus leading to the dining hall.

We have made our bow. Let us congratulate the college's administration upon the impressive strides forward which have been made since last Commencement; the increased attendance, the completed dormitory, the expanded and strengthened faculty. These are all signs of a healthy growth. And last, yet ever first, let us pledge unwavering loyalty to the College of William and Mary, our immortal Alma Mater.

HELP MAKE IT A SUCCESS!

As the Flat Hat this year is more than ever a student publication, it is necessary that it get not only the financial, but the working assistance of the entire student body. To that end, the editorial staff invites each and every student to use the columns of the Flat Hat as a medium for expressing student opinion on current happenings on and off the campus. Any notes, news articles, poems or jokes will be greatly appreciated by the staff. Please remember that it is next to impossible to cover exactly every thing that happens around college, and let us know through the Flat Hat box in front of the Main Building of anything that would be of interest to the student body.

Amusements Found in Williamsburg

Number of Places Where Students Can Spend Idle Time.

Amusements for the students of the College of William and Mary, while not as varied as would be found in a larger city than Williamsburg, are all high class in their several lines.

Probably the greatest drawing card in the city is the Palace Theatre, owned by a group of Williamsburg men and managed by Harry Hundley, a popular young business man. Here the highest class pictures in filmdom are offered nightly for the townspeople and students. Regular city prices are charged. The pictures shown here are on a par with those shown in the largest cities of the State; in fact, the students here see many releases before they are screened in Richmond, Newport News and Norfolk. The management has always asked for the cooperation of the students in booking good photo-plays, and keeping order in the Palace, and it is largely due to this willing cooperation by the students that the theatre maintains such a high standard in a small city. This year it is probable that matinees will be shown every afternoon at 4, permitting students otherwise engaged for the evening to witness the performances. The time for the night shows has been changed from 7:30 to 7, for the first show, and 8:30 to 10 for the second performance. This allows the women students, who have to be in their dormitories by 10 o'clock, to see the night shows during the second performance, a thing that was not possible last year. Many high class features have been booked for this year, including "The Affairs of Anatole," "Way Down East," "Camille," "The Great Moment," and "The Three Musketeers." Announcements of the shows week by week will be found in the Flat Hat.

For those students who like the camping life there is ample opportunity for staging parties on the shore of Lake Matoika, located about a mile down the Jamestown road. Many parties were given there last year by the men and women students. In case of a prolonged spell of cold weather, ice skating of the very best will be found on the frozen surface of the lake.

The Dramatic Club of the college, one of the best in the South, and the only one of its kind in the State of Virginia, will give one or more plays during the college year. Every student in college, man or woman, has an opportunity of trying for the cast in these plays, and their first presentation is always made before the men and women students and townspeople.

The regular dances of the college are staged each year as follows: Openings, sometime during October; Thanksgiving, during first part of December; Midwinter, shortly after mid-term examinations; Easter, after the Easter vacation; and Finals, during the the last days of the session in June. All students have an opportunity of being members of either the Cotillion or German Clubs. The former is the dancing organization of men, while the latter limits its membership to the women. Both gave highly successful dances last year. In addition to the regular dances, there will be impromptu affairs given by the fraternities and societies, and informal hops in the gym, with music by the college orchestra.

There will be other manner of amusement which has not been arranged yet, including music recitals, addresses by prominent men and women, and receptions and parties; and all in all, it is more than probable that the students will not have but so many idle moments, between the time of study, attending lectures, laboratory work, and various amusements in Williamsburg.

This year the Department of Philosophy and Psychology has been increased by the addition of Professor D. J. Blocker, who, besides being a member of the faculty, is proving popular as pastor of the Baptist Church. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and until this fall was a professor of Philosophy and Education at John B. Stetson University, Florida. During the past summer he taught in the William and Mary summer school. Professor Blocker will be professor of Philosophy.

Dr. E. L. Whitney, B. A. and Ph. D., of Harvard, is professor in the Department of Economics and Business Administration this fall. He is an experienced educator and until a short while ago was employed as an expert statistician in the U. S. Department of Labor.

The Department of Science has increased remarkably in the last few years, and this year, to accommodate the increased demand for scientific studies, Dr. Chandler has appointed Dr. A. F. McLeod as professor of Physical and Theoretical Chemistry. Dr. McLeod comes to William and Mary from Beloit College, where he has been professor of chemistry for nine years. Prior to that time he was engaged as an associate professor of chemistry at the University of Nebraska for two years. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where he was awarded his Doctor of Philosophy degree. This summer Dr. McLeod taught in the William and Mary summer school.

Every year William and Mary is sending more students to the medical colleges of the country, and the college prides itself on its pre-medical course, which is a thorough one in every detail. William and Mary graduates and pre-medical students are admitted without question in the largest medical schools in the U. S. This fall the college will enter two students in the medical college of Johns Hopkins University, and another in the medical college of Harvard.

Due to the rapidly increasing enrollment of the college, it has been necessary to secure instructors for the number of courses.

A. P. Elliot, B. A., of William and Mary, and M. A. of the University of North Carolina, is instructor in the Department of English. He is joint instructor with Gwathmey, B. A., of Richmond College, and of the University of Virginia. Both are members of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

The Department of Modern languages has been added to by the securing of J. C. Lyons, B. A. and M. A., of the College of William and Mary and likewise a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. All of the students were overjoyed to learn that "Doc" would be back with us this year as an instructor, as he made a host of friends while a student here from 1918 to 1921, when he was awarded his Master's degree and his "key" for brilliance in all branches of study. Last year the Flat Hat was entrusted to the care of Mr. Lyons and it was largely due to his unceasing labors that the paper attained any success at all.

HANDBOOK DISTRIBUTED

The Students' Handbook, gotten out annually by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., was presented to all the students Monday night. The volume, indispensable to the Freshman and upper classmen alike, is the best ever gotten out by the joint "Y's."

Bound in black leather, and containing 128 pages of information, the little book is a credit to William and Mary, the two "Y's", and its editors, I. H. White, Emily Hall, and L. B. Mead.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTIONS

The annual election of officers of the Senior Class was held Monday night in the chapel. Floyd Berl was elected president, and the other officers were as follows:

Vice-President, Emily Hall.
Secretary and Treasurer, Madeleine Blakey.
Historian, I. H. White.
Prophet, Bozena Kohout.
Chaplain, W. J. Reed.

With The Poets and Wags

The Flat Hat comes out once a week,
To give you all the news;
This column fellow'll always seek,
To drive away the blues.

Each time you'll find some ditty sweet,
Some comfort or "fandango,"
And sometimes we even might repeat,
A bit of choicest scandal.

BY THEIR CREDITS WE SHALL KNOW THEM

He poled a trusty stick of pool,
And tripped a fancy glide—
Wore the sportiest tweed in school;
That made the rest go hide.

The frats looked up his pedigree,
And found it spick and span;
Not a branch upon his family tree,
Said ought but gentleman.

When football came, he went right out,
And made good at the start,
He hit the line, and dodged about,
And won most every heart.

But when the books were opened wide,
And the credits were all in view,
Someone took a peep inside,
And his were only two.

MORAL: Now's the time to get busy. (Ed.) —H. T. M.

LEST YOU FORGET

Keep in the light and two by two,
To the movies always roam;
Lest you're dismissed before you're through,—
To take a journey home.

When Sunday comes, once each week,
Get out the glad rags fine.
Some House of Prayer you must seek,
But come back right at nine.

And ladies, pardon every "Duc"
That comes to dance with you,
For on his head a cap is stuck,
To show that he is new.

We trust that this will be enough
To say about the rules;
So get right out and strut your stuff,
Don't kick, for you're not mules.
—H. T. M.

JUST FUN

Myree Hutchings (To "Duc" in library): "Have you seen anything of th' Virginian-Pilot?"

"Duc": "Naw, what's she look like?"

"Pete" Hundley (After the gym. class): "Gee, wasn't that lighthaired blond some chicken!"

Who does this fit? "He's so sissy he even has his Easter eggs 'soft-boiled.'"

Fresh "Duc": "At home we have a cow that shimmies."

Serene Soph: "Oh, the original milk shake."

The boys tell this one on "Bob" Wallace: "I sure am a heavy sleeper," he murmured, as another slat broke.

Heard at the dance 'tother night: "All that shuffles are not feet!"

A movie date's worth two in the gym. dance.

One of the co-eds, speaking of one of the women students: "She's a war bride."

Other co-ed: "What, Civil?"

Charley Duke is going to name his dog Flannel because he shrinks so from washing.

"Bill" (After a lot of figuring): "I've enough to live on the rest of my life—provided I die tonight."

COLLEGE AWARDS NUMBER DEGREES DURING SUMMER

"Duc" Rules For Men

Definition of a "Duc": A "Duc" is one who is enrolled for the first time at the College of William and Mary, and who has no sophomore standing.

1. Every freshman shall wear a distinctive cap, commonly known as "Duc Caps." This rule does not apply on Sundays, while out of town, or during stormy weather.

2. Every freshman will be required to attend all athletic rallies, athletic celebrations and games on the home field. Sickness is the only exception.

3. No freshman shall sit at table ends in the dining hall, but freshmen shall be responsible for pouring water, tea and coffee.

4. All freshmen shall attend the football and baseball practice twice a week.

5. Freshmen shall know all college songs and yells by October 15.

6. Freshmen can smoke pipes only in their rooms.

7. Freshmen shall tip hats or caps to all professors.

8. Freshmen shall remain in the grandstand during games.

9. All freshmen are required to wear "Duc Caps" during all informal dances.

10. Any student who is not a "Duc" but who has matriculated for the first time in a regular session, be he a sophomore, junior or senior, is required to wear a hat or cap whenever on the campus or in town.

These rules shall remain in effect one term only.

"Y" RECEPTION GIVEN FOR FRESHMAN CLASS

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. gave a grand reception to the Freshman Class September 17, in the Jefferson Hall gymnasium. More than three hundred of this class attended. Music by the college orchestra furnished the occasion with rare selections. Speeches and toasts from the members of the "Y" cabinets intermingled with the speeches from some of the freshman gave a very delightful and mirthful atmosphere to the occasion. After the addresses had been delivered by faculty representatives on the two "Y" cabinets, delicious refreshments were served.

PRESIDENT HARDING TO SPEAK HERE OCTOBER 19

ably attend in a body. Representatives of the leading learned societies and patriotic bodies of the country have been invited, and invitations have also been sent to a number of the nation's most prominent men and women, in all walks of life.

Dr. Chandler has been president of the college for a little over two years and the installation has been delayed twice, once due to a bereavement in his family, and again in June, so as not to conflict with the Centennial Celebration of the University of Virginia.

Under his administration the college has grown rapidly and healthfully. New buildings have been erected to care for the unprecedented enrollment, and the faculty has been greatly increased and strengthened. Extension courses have been carried on for two years in the leading cities of the Tidewater section for those unable to attend classes on the campus. An endowment fund campaign of a million and a half dollars has been begun to meet the needs of the college and enable her to maintain her position among American institutions of learning.

October 19th is a historic day in the history of the United States, for on that date in 1781 Cornwallis acknowledged defeat and surrendered his helpless besieged army to the Colonial and French troops under Washington. The students every year hold some sort of anniversary celebration of Yorktown Day.

Pictures at the Palace This Week

SHOWS AT 4, 7, 8:30 P. M.

The feature attraction at the Palace Theatre next Monday is "The Ten Dollar Raise," an adaptation of Peter B. Kyne's human story which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. The offering is filled with such underlying pathos and is balanced with such exceptionally fine touches that it appears like a slice of everyday life. The hero, Wilkins, has slaved his life away as a bookkeeper at a miserable salary. He lives in constant fear of his employer. Although he has been promised a raise every year for fourteen years, the advance never comes through and Wilkins lacks aggressiveness to ask for it.

He has a romance that nearly burns itself out through the patience of years. So he plods his way through life—a life utterly drab and colorless. Then one day he asserts his personality. The worm turns and Wilkins is the recipient of a snug fortune. This is the substance of one of the most human pictures which ever graced the screen. A prominent cast of players renders perfect support.

TUESDAY

Automobile race enthusiasts will see some of the high spots of the big speed classic which was held at the famous new Beverley Hills Speedway near Los Angeles on February 27th, 1921, when they see Wallace Reid's Paramount Picture, "Too Much Speed," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre Tuesday.

One of the big features of this picture is the race in which Wallace Reid, in the role of Dusty Rhoades, is supposed to participate, and the big speed match referred to was used as a background for the story. Many of the most thrilling moments of the big race were filmed and will appear among the scenes of the picture.

WEDNESDAY

Jewel Carmen, the magnetic screen star whose latest story under Roland West's direction for First National will be shown at the Palace Theatre Wednesday, with the mystifying title of "Nobody," plays the part of a young bride, who is taken by her husband, Tom Smith, to Palm Beach for their honeymoon.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY

A story of romantic quality, with that continental flavor which has been imparted to most of her stories by Mme. Elinor Glyn, is included in "The Great Moment," in which Gloria Swanson makes her debut as a Paramount star, and which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

Monte M. Katterjohn, working side by side with the author, prepared the screen version of the story which opens at an orgy in St. Petersburg when a British aristocrat is captivated by and marries a woman from the plains of Tartary—a Gypsy. The latter leaves him a daughter, Nadine, and in this role Miss Swanson has one of the greatest of her screen career.

The tempestuous nature of her mother is transmitted to the child; the longing for the nomadic life is an inborn passion and she takes the Knight Bayard of history, "without fear and without reproach," as her ideal. A love story follows—a vivid, colorful, perfervid romance, the story shifting across oceans and continents to America and the wilds of Nevada. Later the scene of the story is taken up in Washington and the strict official life of the capital. Finally, the lovers find happiness in the Nevada hills—tasting of heaven and becoming the equals of the gods.

SATURDAY

So many pictures have been called great that the epithet has lost some of its force. Yet it is the fitting word evoked in thinking of the qualities of "The Little Fool," that masterly adaptation of the Jack London novel, "The Little Lady of the Big House."

This is because it bears the imprint of the magic that is Jack London—the authentic touch of the master fictionist who knew how to convey to his readers the glamor of blazing tropics and desolate frozen wastes, the regions where man comes face to face with himself and reality.
